RE: Wisconsin CD-3 Poll Findings

Fresh polling data demonstrates that the political environment significantly favors Republicans in this district. Republican Derrick Van Orden holds a substantial advantage in the race to fill Democratic Rep. Ron Kind’s open seat in Congress.

Van Orden leads 50-38% over Brad Pfaff

- With a large edge in both name identification and favorability, Derrick Van Orden is able to expand his lead beyond that of the generic ballot advantage for a Republican.
- In this heavily blue-collar district, Van Orden leads by 20% among working-class voters.
- Just 12% of voters are undecided.

Congressional Ballot

Republicans lead by 10% on the generic ballot for Congress

- A Republican candidate wins Independent voters and is tied or winning in all four media markets in the district.

Generic Congressional Ballot

Biden job approval deeply underwater

- Independents and both men and women disapprove of President Biden's job performance.
